SHOOTS CHILDREN THEN KILLS SELF AT GRAVE OF WIFE

Bodies of Gilbert Friend, Upper Darby, Lay Near That of Tots

FORMERLY OF FLORIDA

Believe Man Contemplated Act When Wife's Tombstone Was Ordered

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 18.—After firing bullets through the heads of his daughter and two sons, a young father killed himself at the grave of his wife in Fernwood Cemetery, Upper Darby, early today.

The three children were found across the grave at 2.15 o'clock, the bodies having been placed in a row. The bodies had been covered by a blanket, with the heads protruding.

The father, Gilbert Friend, 28, was lying nearby.

The children were Robert, eight; Helen, six, and Kenneth, six months. All were from Plant City, Fla., where Friend was a railroad postal clerk.

His wife, the former Marianne Magee, a Philadelphia girl, who was graduated from West Philadelphia High School, died in Florida December 17 last and was buried at Fernwood January 7.

A note found in Friend's car, parked outside the cemetery, said:

"I must go to join her whom we love so greatly. I do as I believe right about our children, considering the fact that I must go."

"May God forgive me if I am wrong."

John C. Bower, superintendent of the cemetery, at Baltimore pike and Long lane, disclosed today that Friend apparently contemplated suicide and the murder of his children two months ago when he ordered a headstone for his wife's grave.

On the stone he had carved, next to Mrs. Friend's name, his own name and those of the children. The dates of birth were given, but spaces for the date of death were left blank.

Attention was called to the tragedy by a note in the windshield of Friend's sedan parked on Baltimore pike near the southern gate of the cemetery.

The doors of the car were locked but the message could be read through the glass.

It said only: "Notify Earl Friend, 659 Union st., Philadelphia. Lot No. 550, Section 50. Find keys to the car in my pants."

FORMER BRISTOL MAN TELLS OF EARTHQUAKE

Chimney On House Torn To Ground; Trio Hurries To Safety

CITY IS DESOLATE

A letter from a former Bristol resident, W. McCully, has been received by the Courier. In the letter Mr. McCully who resided on Jackson street up until a few months ago, gives an interesting description of the earthquake stricken territory in California. Mr. and Mrs. McCully left Bristol and have been touring the California section in their automobile. The letter follows:

Long Beach, Calif., Mar. 12-33. Editor, the Courier:

Dear Sir: Might interest yourself and readers, the experiences of one who was in the midst of the Southern California earthquake. The worst shock came about 6 p. m. on Friday. The sky had a threatening look as just before a storm and without warning the tremor came and one experience is enough.

Myself and wife and sister were seated at our dinner when the frame dwelling (we were in upper flat) tossed like a ship at sea and the mantle and brickwork along with the mantel radio-clock and picture over it came to the floor with a crash as the chimney went to the ground. We started for the stairway when the chimney on entrance side came down with a crash. We waited until the dust settled and rushed for the street.

The excitement in our neighborhood was beyond description and reports were coming in from all part of the surrounding country.

When things settled down the dead totalled about 130 and the damage approximately $30,000,000 in Long Beach and vicinity.

The business section is a woeful sight, with all glass out, and stock from shelves and counters in jumbled masses.

The stone churches and schools suffered most, but steel and frame structures stood very well. The city park looks like a refugee camp with tents and foodstuffs for all, gratis, as the gas is turned off in the city but lights are on.

WRECK ANNIVERSARY

Thursday marked the anniversary of the wreck on the Pennsylvania Railroad here in which eight were injured when a New York express was derailed, with six cars breaking loose from the locomotive and nose-diving down the embankment headed for the lake in Grundy Park. The lead car stopped but a few feet short of the water.

Hundreds of people gathered to assist in freeing passengers from the debris, when the work was hampered by the darkness of night; and the following morning many more came from points for miles about to see the wreckage. A tree halted the wild dash of the coaches after they plowed up hundreds of feet of track, uprooted steel standards with concrete bases, and as a result tore down hundreds of feet of high-tension wire.

Those injured in the wreck were from New York, New Jersey and points in Pennsylvania. Five railroad workers suffered minor injuries as they cleared debris.

WEABER ACQUITTED

Pottsville, Mar. 18.—J. Tilden Weaver, 55 year old Palmyra carpenter, who confessed to murdering his wife then pleaded not guilty and went to trial with a defense of temporary insanity resulting from his wife's relations with another man, was acquitted in Schuylkill County Court last night.

A jury of eleven men and a woman returned the verdict after deliberating six hours.

Weaver was accused of slashing his wife's throat with a razor in the woods near here last October.

Given the case at 6 o'clock, the jury was delinked at 11:30 when it returned to the court room for instructions and had the defendant's confession re-read. Retiring again the jury returned the verdict acquitting Weaver within half an hour.

The verdict came as a tremendous surprise to court attaches and spectators who had predicted a conviction.

The overjoyed Palmyra man immediately joined his family of six sons and two daughters with the remark, "I told you so."

CONGRESS SLOWS DOWN

Washington, D. C., Mar. 18.—The machine-gun like rapidity with which Congress had acted on important legislation during the past week slowed down perceptibly today and rebellious members served notice that hereafter they are going to demand more time for consideration. They swallowed the banking bill at one gulp under pressure of a great emergency without few of the members even having read the bill. They gave President Roosevelt sweeping powers to cut salaries and veterans' compensation almost as quickly and jammed the beer for revenue bill through in jig time. But there a halt was called. The legislation passed hereafter is not going to be so dizzy. Republican and critical Democrats alike have been murmuring against the record-breaking speed. It was reflected yesterday with the House's refusal to enact a bill granting Federal relief to non-member banks of the Federal Reserve system despite the word President Roosevelt wanted speedy action.

When both houses reconvene on Monday, it will be for a long stretch, probably until June 1st or later. Earlier intentions to pass emergency legislation and then recess while a definite legislative program was being prepared, have been abandoned. Congress is going to stay on the job and work on the Roosevelt program which embraces not only farm relief and unemployment relief, but railroad legislation, permanent reform of the nation's banking system and some curbing of speculation.

Midnight Blaze Believed of Incendiary Origin; Burned Bull is Shot

LOSS IS PUT AT $8,000

Blaze Discovered by Charles Lancaster Who Arouses Residents on Place

Another large barn with its contents of grain, hay, farm machinery, harness, two cows, two heifers, and a bull, quantity of farming tools, and an automobile truck, fell prey to flames early this morning on the farm of Earl Tomb, Bath Road. The blaze is attributed to an incendiary and the loss is put at $8,000. The buildings are owned by James King while the contents were the property of Mr. Tomb. Insurance covers a portion of the loss.

The blaze, which beyond doubt was started by an incendiary, in the opinion of Bucks County Fire Marshal, William L. Stackhouse, who also hastily estimated the loss while the fire was still burning, was discovered at about 12:20 by Charles (Chick) Lancaster.

Lancaster was driving along Bath Road from Bristol and his attention was attracted to a small blaze at one end of the Tomb barn, near the ground, on the outside of the building. He stopped his car and blowing his horn and shouting "fire," he succeeded in arousing the Tombs as well as others residing in the vicinity.

Mr. Tomb and Lancaster then hustled to the barn and found that a bull had broken loose and gotten out. The flames were spreading with great rapidity and the two men lost no time in liberating two horses, a dog and in endeavoring to get other stock and some of the contents of the barn out. The bull was scorched and it was found necessary to shoot it this morning.

A call was sent to the Bristol Consolidated Fire Department and two pieces of apparatus responded in quick time. The call was clocked at fire headquarters at 12:28. An available water supply was close at hand and the Consolidated pumper was put into service at a creek which runs near the place.

The flames found much to feed upon in the big structure which measured approximately 60 by 30 feet. As the blaze gained headway and tongues of flames leaped into the air the sky was made brilliant and the reflection could be seen for miles. This attracted crowds of spectators and fire companies from neighboring towns and villages which rushed to the scene anxious to be of service.

The burning framework of the barn was soon outlined against the blackness of the night but the Consolidated department under Chief McGee worked for over two hours at the scene. (Continued on Page 4)

280 Young People Hear The Rev. G. F. Hess at Rally

HULMEVILLE, Mar. 18.—Two hundred and eighty young folks, representing Epworth League societies from points between Lahaska and Bensalem, crowded the Neshaminy M. E. Church last evening when the March bi-monthly rally of Bristol Group took place. Booked upon the evening's program was an address by the Rev. George F. Hess, of Philadelphia; and vocal quartet contests.

A new banner was added to the former group of three, and was presented for the first time last evening. The new one is the mileage banner, presented to the league members traveling the greatest number of miles, with number in the group being taken into consideration. This was awarded the Lahaska League. Six Leagues had quartets vying for honors in song, namely, Bristol, Bensalem, Scottsville, Hulmeville, Tullytown, and Emille.

The honors were accorded the Bensalem male quartet which sang "The Belis of St. Mary's." Attendance banner for the largest group present was given to the Emille League, while Tullytown received the percentage banner.

Ernst Heizman presided. At the close of the program refreshments of ice cream and pretzels were served. "The Belt of the Soul" was chosen by the Rev. Hess, a former pastor of Bristol M. E. Church, for his talk to the young people. He told of the great inventions of recent years and of what things have come to pass through such, with one of the greatest being the instantaneous flashing of news to all parts of the globe. "The forces of civilization are important as they bring the nations of the world together. We cannot live unto ourselves any more."

It is a wonderful day in which we live. If God has so blessed us to live in this day of advancement shouldn't we all be up and doing, and tighten the belts of our souls, thus making ourselves a help unto others? We should go forth with a positiveness, and earnestness for Him. It is the individual who has but little but who gives it purposefully who counts in the Kingdom of God.

MUST WORK FOR RELIEF IF SO REQUESTED

Ruling Received From The Governor's Office Explaining The Law

LETTER IS MADE PUBLIC

Some question has arisen among those receiving relief orders as to whether or not they should work for these relief orders, when so requested by the proper authorities.

Today the Bucks County Relief Board made public recent correspondence from the office of Governor Gifford Pinchot, which clearly explains the situation and makes it emphatic that those receiving state relief are required to work when requested by the proper authorities.

In addition to the correspondence, telegraphic advices state:

"Governor insists men must work for food orders they receive."

A portion of the act under which the relief was granted by the legislature reads:

"No relief shall be given to any person who has been offered work that he or she can do but has refused to work."

A letter received by the Bucks County Relief Board from Governor Pinchot reads as follows:

"Governor's Office, Harrisburg, October 6, 1932. "The State Emergency Relief Board hereby authorizes you to supply free labor from your list of persons needing work-relief, or from persons whom you know to be in need of employment, for use in cities, boroughs, parks, and at school houses, charitable institutions, churches, hospitals, and similar places not conducted for profit and to pay for it with food orders."

"Upon application to the County Board, municipal and other authorities (Continued on Page 2)

SATURDAY, MARCH 18, 1933

TO BE THANKFUL FOR

The farmers of Bucks and Philadelphia counties were told of their blessings and resources at St. Francis Industrial School, Thursday, and the one who reminded them of their advancements in many lines and of their accumulations in a material way, W. V. Dennis, of Pennsylvania State College, informed the farmers of this section they are "lucky."

Lucky not in the sense that the gains, although slow, have come easily, for the farmers have worked hard and unceasingly; but "lucky" in the sense that those following agricultural pursuits in other sections of the state and nation have been "hard hit" to a greater extent than Bucks County husbandmen.

As Professor Dennis said, the farmer has and is serving mankind with little financial return.

But in spite of this fact the farmers and their families are steadily advancing along many fronts. Dairy herd production is increasing, the strain in poultry flocks is greatly improved over a few years ago, improvements in farm machinery, and advancement in number of home conveniences, is marked. The farmer is not going backward. He is holding his own, in spite of the whirl-gig about him. And one thing that struck home, and made many of the farm folks sit up and take notice was the statement of the professor, based upon facts, that the "farmers as a class accumulate more wealth than any other class in the nation."

Then turning to the social side, the farmers are to be complimented, as the speaker praised them on their home-life and families. "There is a heroism in our womanhood that we can profit by," he told the tillers of the soil.

And one cannot help but agree with the message that the farmer is doing something worthwhile, and through it experiencing the joy of craftsmanship.

The farmers of the two counties, together with their leaders, are to be congratulated for their excellent community gatherings each year, and the profitable and instructive programs presented. May the farmer, the one who presides life giving food to the rest of the world, continue in his forward march!

EXPLORING THE SKIES

It is for the laity to marvel at the multitude of sparkling lanterns hung in the blue canopy of heaven, and to speculate on the vast purpose which has created so many astral bodies and to wonder whether there are eyes on the other worlds to see this earth as a spot of light in the serene skies of midnight. But those scientists who call themselves astronomers must go farther. They must know.

They would know while Venus shines in all her glory whether she is habitable and whether the planets turn on their axis like the earth or presents the same face to the sun at all times, as the moon does to the earth. The mystery of the clouds which veil Venus' face is about to be cleared up. Pierced at last by science they have been found to contain no water vapor nor oxygen for the support of life as we know it.

Education makes you understand how little you really know.

 restores for resale. Yesterday he showed reproductions of one of the Madonna's, which when he first secured such he knew to have been re-decorated. Three stages in the restoration were shown, with clothing other than the original being removed, and the original picture restored.

Dr. Bye told of how artists paint on both canvas and wood, in the latter work poplar and oak being used. When wood is brought into play for painting, the surface is treated with paint to prevent the wood from warping. Reproductions of work by Italian, Dutch, English, and French artists were shown the Sorosis members and their friends. Many of these had been restored by the Lahaska artist.

Mrs. J. Nelson Allison, president, presided at the session. Guests included some members of the Southampton Women's Club and Yardley Civic Club.

Must Work For Relief If So Requested

 ties may without cost, secure men and women for emergency relief work.

"Workers so supplied will not be paid in cash but in food orders at the prevailing rate of relief. It is not expected, of course, that persons hired under these conditions will take the place of those now regularly employed, nor that they shall undertake purely routine work.

"Opportunities are innumerable for employment of this kind. Men and women may freely accept food orders with no blow to their pride. Much good should result.

"I urge that wherever possible advantage be taken of this offer. Firewood can be cut, streets and highways patched, parks improved, sewers built, sidewalks laid, buildings repaired and painted, and gutters cleaned. Each community knows its own needs. Things can be done now which were postponed because funds were lacking. The only cost to those who benefit by this offer will be for necessary materials and supervision. Prices of materials of all kinds will never be lower than they are today.

"The State Board hopes that you will take immediate advantage of this offer in as many ways as possible, of course within the limits of your State and Federal allotments and only after allowing adequate relief for those who cannot work. Food orders issued for the purposes above described may be paid for out of either the State money or the Federal money allocated to you as you may prefer, provided you have the funds to your credit.

"Sincerely yours,
 (Signed) GIFFORD PINCHOT."

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

Monsieur de Bernis levelled the telescope and for some moments stood carefully scanning the ships. They flew no flag; but their lines left him in no doubt of their identity.

As he closed the telescope, a grim smile was stamped on his dark, narrow face. "In an hour they will have the island abeam. Come. There's no time to be lost."

They sped back as swiftly as they had come. In all they had not been absent above an hour when they stepped out of the woods again beside their hut. There Monsieur de Bernis paused. From under his arm he took the telescope, which he handed it to Pierre, who went off with it to his tent.

Monsieur de Bernis stepped into the hut, where the Major sat drowsily watching Priscilla, who was again busy with her needle. They looked up as he entered and went to take down his sword and baldric from the hook where it was hung.

"Why that?" the girl asked him sharply.

Monsieur de Bernis shrugged. "Feeling running as it does, it is well to go prepared." He passed the heavily encrusted baldric over his head, and settled it on his shoulder. "It inspires respect. It acts as an inducement to civility."

Reassured by that smiling explanation and his easy manner, they let him go.

Outside the hut he paused. Knowing what he went to do, he was moved to a last word with Priscilla, a last instruction to the Major in case the worst should befall him. Instead, however, after an instant's thought, he passed on to the half-caste's tent.

"Pierre, if the worst should happen to me, see to Miss Priscilla. You should meet few difficulties."

Pierre's eyes, dark and soft as velvet, were filled with alarmed concern. "Monsieur! Could you not wait? Is there no other way?"

"No way so sure as this. Besides, I owe it to myself."

"Sure?" the half-caste echoed. "But not sure for you?"

"Eh, pardieu! But yes. Sure enough for me."

Pierre clutched his master's hand. He bore it to his lips.

"Dieu vous garde, monsieur!" he prayed.

De Bernis patted the bowed head. "So tranquille, mon fils." And upon that he departed resolutely.

Chance favouring his design, he came upon Tom Leach walking with Wogan within fifty yards of the buccannier's encampment. He gave them a friendly good-day; gave it deliberately, with a flourish. Tom Leach looked him over without friendliness.

"What d'ye want here?"

"What I want?" Monsieur de Bernis displayed only surprise, to mask his satisfaction at finding the Captain so readily disposed to create the situation which the Frenchman desired. "What I want?" he said again, his eyebrows up, his lip curling, his eyes looking down his nose at the buccannier.

The very insolence of his attitude was steel to the flint of Leach's humour. "Aye, what ye want. If thee's come to make mischief again, thee'd better ha' stayed away."

They were making excellent progress, thought Monsieur de Bernis. He stepped close up to Leach, with arms akimbo, whilst Wogan looked on inscrutably. "I don't think ye're civil, Tom."

"Civil?" The Captain spat with deliberate offensiveness. "I sees no call for civility."

De Bernis' sword was no more than half out of the sheath when the murderous lunge was aimed at him.

"So? In fact, Tom, I find you darned provocative."

"Provocative! Ha! He finds me provocative, Mike! 'Slife! Are you to be provoked? Seems to me yours is the kind o' courage that likes to have a shelter, to make cat's-paws for itself."

"That is what you know of me, is it?"

"It's what I've seen."

Wogan accounted it time to make a pretence of intervening. "Och, now, will ye be remembering what's aye of us? Won't ye be making the peace, now, both of ye, and working together like good Brethren of the Coast, come now."

"It is what I most desire, Wogan," lied Monsieur de Bernis. "I've been thinking that yesterday Tom said that to me which hurt my honour. If he'll unsay it now, I am ready to forget it."

Thus, in his desire that the provocation should appear to come entirely from the other side, he gambled upon his knowledge of the Captain's mood and nature. The result did not disappoint him.

"Honour!" Leach crowed derisively. "Your honour! Faith! That's good! That's very good for thee!" And he laughed, his eyes inviting Wogan to join him in his derisive mirth.

But the tall, lanky Irishman preserved a preternatural gravity. Nor was he entirely without anxiety. He was almost as solemn as Monsieur de Bernis, who was asking in solemn tones: "Will you tell me what's to laugh at, Captain?"

"You! You and your honour, you cuckold jackanapes!"

Pneumonia Time--

"PNEUMONIA TIME" is here! Ask any doctor or any hospital authority. They will tell you that during March and April, mortality from pneumonia reaches its peak.

You already know that this universally feared disease usually starts with just an ordinary cold — the kind many women catch through the health hazards to which they are exposed while doing the weekly washing.

Laundries are a powerful factor in protecting health, and many women know this. What they do not know is that home washing is a big factor in damaging their health—in bringing on colds and many other illnesses.

There is only one reason why Home Managers insist on exposing themselves to these dangerous colds. They think they save money by doing washing at home. But they don't! They can Send It All to the Laundry at no additional cost—and at the same time eliminate this menace to health.

Something New for the Beach

Here is the three-way economy beach outfit which Frances Dee, beautiful screen player, takes with her when she spends a session with Old Sol. As the name suggests, the suit makes for economy in three different ways—in packing space, outfit and time. At left the ensemble is shown as a bathing suit with yellow top, striped in blue and green, and navy blue trunks. In center, the suit is shown worn with the navy blue slacks that accompany it. In this form it may be used for beach lounging. At right Miss Dee wears the wrap-around skirt that changes the suit into a sporty ensemble.

GIANTS' PITCHING STAFF MUST HOLD UP

(The following article on the New York Giants is the fourth in a series of major league baseball prospects.)

By Ted Smith
(L. N. Sports Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 18.—(INS)—"Will the pitching staff hold up?" That was the sole question asked today by the New York Giants as they busied themselves with their training work at Wrigley Field here.

If the twirlers stand up under pressure, then the Giants will be an important factor in the National League. In fact, the Chicago Cubs, who are conceded the league championship, expect the New York team to finish third, close behind the probable second-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're hoping for the best, but we can't promise much except that we know we are going to have a fighting ball-club," said Manager Bill Terry, who is embarking on his first full year in the pilot position.

Among the newcomers expected to aid in preventing a collapse of the pitchers such as occurred last year is Roy Parmelee, who showed great form with Columbus in 1932. He won 14 out of 15 and already this spring has displayed enough stuff to lead the experts to think his presence may go a long way towards boosting the Giants from the whereabouts of the cellar up to a commanding position in the league.

Old time hurlers include Carl Hubbell, Fred Fitzsimmons, and Hal Schumacher. John Salvoston is one of the recruit twirlers, but he has yet to flash big league form.

Behind the plate Terry will have Roy Mancuso, a receiver with a great arm, and incidentally the first Italian to be slated as a regular in the history of the Giants—a fact that may be of aid in bringing out the cash customers.

Terry himself will hold down first base, with Hughie Critz, who is still suffering from a lame arm, slated for second. Travis Jackson, the steady veteran, will be at short-stop with Verges at third. James has also been trying out at second and has looked fair.

Len Koencke, a rookie who failed last year, is making a determined bid for an outfield post, and of course there is Mel Ott, a hard hitter and steady performer.

JACK HEALEY'S Bristol pistol shooting team will hold practice matches on the club range on the grounds of the Bristol Sand and Gravel Company on the River road below Bristol . . . today at 1:30 and Sunday afternoon at the same time.

The purpose of these contests is to determine just who among the members will represent Bristol in the joint team of Bristol and Burlington in a series of matches to be held between them and the 103rd Engineers Army team of Philadelphia at an early date.

Among the members of the local club who will compete are: Howard J. James, C. Scott Wetherill, Frank Pfeiffer, Charles Rathke, Ralph Ratcliffe, Donald Meyer, Wesley Spencer, John Morrell, Jack Healey, and George Hotchkiss of Doylestown.

Standard Army L. Target at a distance of fifteen yards will be used on the range . . . with the contestants using any type pistol not over 10" between sights . . . a team from Burlington will be on the range also on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Healey extends an invitation to anyone who would like to try out for the team to get in touch with him either at his home on Pine street or at Bowen's Drug Store on Radcliffe street.

and bells clanging. Firemen are busy clearing up wrecked roofs and walls. Just now, 1:30 p. m., Sunday, I felt a tremor (quite a severe one) and started for the door, but like the rest, it is past. Maybe there will be no more. It is almost beyond belief that a pretty city like this could be such a wreck in a minute's time. The people here deserve all credit for their fortitude in a time like this, with helping hands and stout hearts. People are camping on the streets, vacant lots and anywhere but in buildings.

Water must be boiled for twenty minutes so as to prevent disease. We escaped with no damage except a few broken dishes.

Sincerely,

W. McCULLY,

The barn was only about 100 feet from the house with the stable at the opposite end and it was in this end that the fire is believed to have started or at least was first seen.

This brings the total number of barns destroyed in Bucks County during the past nine months to 50. The fire loss in the past three months totals $155,000, four deaths have resulted from fires and 121 head of cattle destroyed.

It is believed that about one third of the barn fires during the past three months have been incendiary.
